Fr. Kevin Nadolski, OSFS, director of vocations for the Oblates of St. Francis de Sales, comes from Philadelphia, PA, where he and his two older brothers, Joe and Tom, were raised by their parents Joe and Eleanor, who will soon celebrate their 56th wedding anniversary. He is proud to be the favorite uncle of Leah, Grace (whom he named), Elizabeth, and Tommy. A graduate of Temple University, Catholic University of America, and DeSales School of Theology, Kevin holds degrees in journalism, theology, and education. He was ordained a priest by Bishop Michael Saltarelli in 1997. Most of his ministry has been in Catholic schools, including Salesianum School in Wilmington, Delaware, and Bishop Ireton in Alexandria, Virginia. In this ministry he has worked as a teacher, campus minister, and principal. Presently, he works as the director of vocations and communications for the Oblates. Kevin enjoys running, movies, ER and Law & Order. His favorite pastime is reading lots of newspapers while drinking lots of coffee.

Our parish mission provides a wonderful opportunity for Lenten reflection and reaffirmation of our faith community as we commemorate the 100th anniversary of St. Charles Parish. Email the Centennial Committee (cc@stcharleschurch.org) for more information.
